OpenAlt 2018

With open approach to open society. That's the vision of our annual OpenAlt conference. To stay relevant, it's important to support online cooperation, build creative communities and discuss about open participation and culture.

We strive to pave the path to open data for both the public administration and the private sector, advertise for open access to scientific information and offer alternatives in education.

We also create space for makers and the DIY (do-it-yourself) movement.

Conference main topics

- Open society, communities and open data
communities, private sector, open government, licenses, open data, geoinformation systems
- Education alternatives
online education, respect, self-educative communities
- Security and privacy
encryption, tracking, data backups and retention, monitoring, passwords, data hacking
- IoT and Makers movement
DIY, coworking, hackathons, 3D printing, IoT
- Open Science
Open Access, Open Research Data
- Free and open source software
open source OS and software, web technologies, database, virtualization, containerization

OpenAlt
conference

Who we are

We are registered association with the aim on open source and open web in the widest concept. From hardware to software, data, science, education or project management. Our annual conference is the manifesto and the answer to technological and social challenges.

We support open technologies and organize community and learning events.

We also empower both local and global open source software open design projects.

Why to partner with us

Both speakers and attendees of our conference are the top Czech and global experts.

OpenAlt creates space for developers of various software areas, from operating systems and web technologies to small single chip devices. OpenAlt is a common place to connect individuals and organizations interested in open solutions and public space.

The conference provides excellent opportunity for getting feedback on your products and new ideas.
